

What really matters?

In this lesson, you learned about the various causes of indifference in society: materialism, loss of hope, cynicism, technological advancement and learned helplessness. Reflect on each of these and answer the following questions:

Which of these factors do you believe to be the strongest cause of indifference in our world today? Why?

What are the things that really matter to you? Draw, doodle or write about them in the box below.

Is God on your list of things that really matter to you? Why or why not?
