

The Many Faces of Sin

Sin comes when we take a perfectly natural desire or longing or ambition and try desperately to fulfil it without God. Not only is it sin, it is a perverse distortion of the image of the Creator in us. All these good things, and all our security, are rightly found only and completely in him.

– Confessions of St Augustine of Hippo

Page 183 of your textbook lists seven deadly sins and names them as anger, avarice (greed), envy, gluttony, lust, pride and sloth. Write the appropriate name (of a deadly sin) beside each illustration below.

In the space below draw a seven-headed monster – each head depicting one of the seven deadly sins!
